

Angular diversity, not redundancy, is what makes the shared bias identifiable

575 camera pairs at 399 commanded poses, balanced set-pose grid, current floor-plane projection, clear views only. The estimate uses camera disagreement only; ground truth appears solely as the reference line.

One shared number explains the disagreement and it is recovered without ground truth

Cameras looking from OPPOSITE directions pin it down.
Similar directions give a confidently WRONG answer

