

Re-parameterised: the offset belongs to the robot, and the heading carries it into each camera's view

ONE offset, in the robot's frame, shared by all four cameras fitted independently per capture: they disagree by 46 mm on a 22 mm vector

The heading each capture actually drove — odometry, never truth

