

The same three arms on both measurement paths, pooled over three captures — the two levers act on different axes

